

Spanish is truly one romantic language: even “please put out the garbage” (ponga por favor hacia fuera la basura) sounds great. To help you enjoy your stay, take this Inside Scoop with you and practice.

Whether going to the DR (Dominican Republic), Cuba, Spain or South America, this widely spoken language (by 500 million+ people) is the official language of 21 countries. It’s also the second most spoken US language (and beautiful).

Siesta, patio, plaza, vanilla are all Spanish, with many other similar English words. As with French, there are two ways to address people; the familiar tú with family and friends; the formal usted in respect for others. Gender can be a difficult concept for English-speakers. As in French, use “la” for feminine and “le” for masculine.

Although it varies among countries (in parts of Spain, “c” is pronounced “th”), speak Spanish phonetically and articulate each letter except “h” (silent).

For “ll,” as in pollo (chicken), “ll” is pronounced “y” as “poyo.” In a phrase you’ll use a lot, por favor (please), practice rolling the “rrrr.” Add please or thank you (gracias) to any phrase and be courteous! People will appreciate you trying and will aim to help.
